Newlyweds, Davis and Deidre find a beloved, elderly friend unconscious in her bedroom with her watchdog dead on the front porch. There is reason to believe a frequently spotted mysterious figure known as the Adairsville Creeper might be responsible. Young policeman Charley Nelson is a nephew of the victim. Davis and Charley are soon hot on the trail of the culprit. Does the crime and the related ones that follow have something to do with Aunt Bessie's childhood friendship with a famous local author?

As Davis and Charley search for answers, both find themselves struggling with important personal decisions. Then, just hours apart, the two friends come face to face with potential tragedies that render their previous struggles of little consequence. ON LEVEL GROUND is a mystery/suspense story that has a lot to say about finding direction and then acceptance of God's will. Fortunately, it is another opportunity to visit with the colorful characters that make Adairsville, Georgia such a delightful place.

About the Authors

Danny and Wanda Pelfrey, natives of Adairsville, Georgia, have produced several helpful non-fiction books. As long-time readers of mystery and suspense, they are now having a lot of fun creating mysteries with a message. Both hold degrees from Point University and Danny a Masters from Kentucky Christian University.
